Emergency Meeting Called On Sales, Income Taxes

Star Staff Writer

Gov J James Exon Friday scheduled an emergency meeting of the State Board of Equalization and Assessment next week "to determine whether the rates for the sales tax and income tax should be changed '

That the 25% state sales tax rate must go to 3% appears absolute

Officials' statements and Nebraska fund squeeze statistics indicate a retroactive increase in the income tax rate is all but a virtual certainty Discussions have dwelled on a 1% boost, from the current 15' o of an individual's federal hability on

Exon aide William Hoppner said Friday the special meeting apparently precludes the necessity of calling the Legislature into special session to consider cutting current fiscal year appropriations, which far exceed incoming and projected revenues to pay those bills

Tax Commissioner William E. Peters announced the 2 p m. Thursday meeting on behalf of the vacationing Exon. He's expected to return by Monday Board members to convene in the governor's Captiol hearing room are Democrats Exon and Peters, and Republicans State Auditor Ray A C Johnson, Secretary of State Allen Beermann and Treasurer Frank Marsh

The next regularly scheduled meeting is Nov 15, to set calendar 1977 tax rates. The board must also meet within 10 days after any regular or special Unicameral session. But state finances meanwhile are in "a critical situation," Hoppner

The Exon administration asked Atty Gen Paul Douglas to research more expedient alternatives Douglas determined the governor has the authority to call the extraordinary board session, based on a law regarding a 10% error in revenue projections used to set current tax rates

Hoppner said the state exceeded that error rate in July, the first month of the 1976-77 fiscal year Peters explained that actual July deposits to the general fund were 88 4% of projections

THE LINCOLN STAR

That shortage "coupled with the overall deterioration of revenue receipts, particularly since April," Peters said, "indicate the state will fall considerably short of funds necessary to meet legislative appropriations "

The Revenue Department had estimated receipts would be as much as $517 million, the Legislature's fiscal staff estimated $503 million.

"It now appears," Peters said, "that both of these estimates were high. The actual receipts will probably be in the $475-million range General fund appropriations amount to approximately $460 million and that requirement balloons to $480 million including the statutory reserve cushion

However, it appears the state will end up more than only $5 million short, according to Peters, because the $475-million gross revenue projection will not be the net amount available. It will be whittled down by paying out tax refunds, and proceeds to Lincoln, Omaha and Bellevue from the additional 1% sales tax those cities levy North Platte will join that list this fall

Peters said the Revenue Department will furnish Equalization Board members "with detailed figures" prior to the Thursday session, to consider in deciding the amount of tax rate changes necessary to meet dollar requirements

Hoppner said the fiscal situation appears critical even if any legislative spending cuts were

'The governor will be addressing the question of the level of spending with the senators at the beginning of the next legislative session in January " Hoppner said

Exon will reiterate his farewell address to the Unicameral last April which stated, as Hoppner paraphrased the governor "We have reached a point where ever-increasing spending at the state level is going to require tax increases."

Hoppner said Evon's prediction obviously came true sooner than expected, as income expectations fell to pieces

There's no question about a 5% sales tax in crease. ' Hoppner said "The question the board is going to have to face is the potential for a retroaclive income tax increase

Peters said earlier this week he wouldn't close the door to the possibility of rate hikes in both taxes with the income portion possibly retroactive to Jan 1

Increased sales tax revenues from a rate boost would arrive in the state treasury almost immediately, but might not produce amounts sufficient to cover deficits projected now. More taxes on meomes would offset that lack, although actual collection of receipts would be delayed, yet retroactive application would generate the money when the biggest pinch is foreseen, from January through June

Senate's Tax-Freeze Bill Favors Investors, Business

passed a bill Friday night that freezes income taxes and makes billions of dollars worth of changes in the taxation of businesses and investors

The measure, which has something for just about everybody, was approved 49 to 22

Sen Carl Curtis, R-Neb, voted for

Most importantly, the bill would extend through Dec 31, 1977, the individual and business tax cuts enacted last year They are worth about $180 a year ago to a typical $15,000-a-year family of four

The measure, debated by the Senate for nearly six weeks, aims to simplify the tax-filing process while creating new tax breaks for college students. working parents, the elderly and

Despite a fight by a bloc of liberals, the bill carries a long string of tax advantages for high-income investors and businesses. But it would end some abuses of tax shelters and make it more difficult for the wealthy to avoid taxation altogether

The bill is sharply different from the version passed by the House last year As a whole, the House bill is less generous to high-income investors and businesses The Senate bill, however, aims to provide specific relief to

--Parents of college students, by allowing a special tax credit for tuition and similar expenses.

-Homeowners, by allowing a credit for certain energy-conservation improvements,

 Working parents, by simplifying and liberalizing tax benefits to offset the costs of child-care expenses A less generous provision is in the House bill

-Housewives, by launching a program that eventually could lead to federally subsidized pensions for spouses who do not work outside the

As far-reaching as those provisions are, the long Senate battle was fought not over such benefits but over tax breaks for investors and businesses

Sen Russell B Long, D-La, and a majority of his tax-writing Finance Committee wrote into the bill a series of tax breaks designed to attract investment in American business

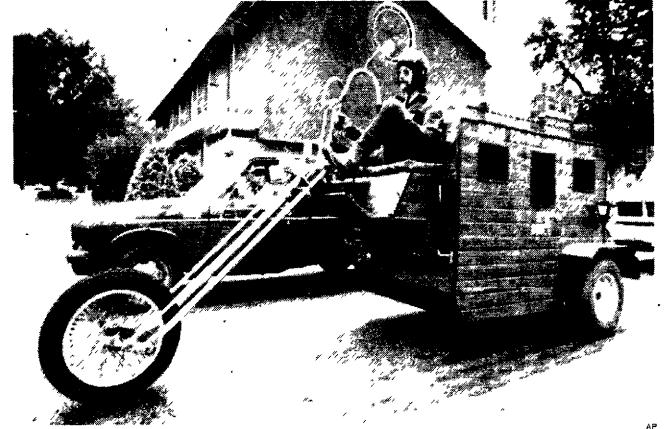

Sen Edward M Kennedy, D-Mass leading the opposition, criticized

The arguments on that provision summed up the long weeks of debate on the bill

Long said "These investment needs can be met only by increased private savings," he added "This, in turn, requires more favorable tax treatment of the income from capital

At least half of the $50,000 in consulting contracts held by his firm will end up as corporate earnings, the executive director of the Lancaster County Railroad Transportation Safety District said Friday

John Longsdorf said that RTSD's in Adams and Madison counties owe his firm about 5 000 The balance of that would be corporate earnings, he said

Longsdorf's statement came during questioning by The Star on the "overhead" his firm Community Railroad Relocation Consultants, incurs in the course of doing

That individual, Glenn E Vollmer, said that he did $2,000 worth of design-engineering work for Longsdorf in 1974, $3,000 worth in 1975 and $4,000 worth so far in 1976

Most Work Involved Lincoln

But most of that work, Vollmer said, involved the RTSD in Lincoln "Not too much" involved the RTSD's in Norfolk and Hastings, ' he said

Another outside contractor hired by his firm, Longsdorf said, was the Hoskins-Western-Sonderegger firm for aerial photographs of Hastings

The Hoskins-Western-Sonderegger firm confirmed that it supplied eight photographic prints of Hastings for about $200

When Longsdorf was asked for the names of other firms and individuals who have been hired by his firm during the past year Longsdorf said he could not remember any

Longsdorf said, however, that he remembered a $737 charge for insurance and a $1500 deduction from corporate funds for withholding taxes

A spokesman for the Hoskins-Western-Sonderegger firm said its bills for the Hastings aerial photographs were made out to the Linωln RSTD

Paid By Corporation

The amount, however, was apparently paid by the corporation The county treasurer's office contains no record of those bills being paid from public money

The complexity of the relationship between Longsdorf, Hartsock, the local RTSD and the CRRC firm also shows in the phone bill for suite 1711 in the First National Bank Building Hartsock shares the suite, a secretary and a telephone number with the local RTSD and therefore Longsdorf

In deciding, for example, who owed what for the month of June a decision had to be made on which long distance calls were to be billed to the RTSD, which to Hartsock and an attorney who formerly worked with him, and which to the CRRC

The phone bills show that CRRC apparently paid its own telephone long distance calls and interest, but did not pay any of the fixed cost for the local telephone service

The complexity of the relationship is also shown by the monthly lease payments Records on file in the county treasurer's office show that Hartsock and the RTSD (tax money) split the lease payment for the suite, but there is no indication of any payment by CRRC number of Americans went job hunting in July, swelling the ranks of workers but also pushing the unemployment rate up to 7.8%, the government reported Friday. The increase in unemployment was the second in two months, coming after jobless rates of 75% in June and 7.3% in May.

7.4 Million Out Of Work; Administration Not Alarmed

Administration economists saw no cause for alarm, but AFL-CIO President George Meany said the increases justify turning President Ford out of office.

. The Labor Department said total employment increased by some 400,000 to a record 87 9 million persons in July. But the number of individuals who unsuccessfully sought Nork climbed by 280,000 to 7.4 million.

The 7.8% unemployment rate was the highest since an identical percentage of workers was unemployed in January. But since the labor force is steadily growing, the actual number of unemployed represented the greatest number since 7.7 million persons were unable to find employment last December

* The latest increase would appear to make as forecast of reducing unemployment to Tess than 7% by the year's end. However, women's role in society.

Washington (AP) - An unusually large White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said administration analysts believe the forecast will hold up.

The overriding factor in the July report apparently was the typical post-recession phenomenon in which thousands of persons who don't seek work when the economy is in a tailspin begin making the rounds of personnel offices.

John W. Kendrick, chief economist for the Commerce Department, contrasted the nearly 700,000-person increase in the job force during July with an average gain of about 200,000 in recent months.

But there were apparently some other factors at work. Kendrick said, not all of which are fully understood yet. One question was raised by the fact that over half of the 2.3million-person growth in the job force in the past year were among adult women, even though they make up just under a third of the total work force.

In the past, the number of women entering the job force has been a rough indicator of how badly strapped family budgets are. Analysts feel that factor is probably still preit difficult for the administration to achieve sent to some degree in the latest surge, but compounded now by more basic changes in working-age women are now looking for or holding jobs, up from 46.1% a year ago. The participation rate for adult men, meanwhile, has fallen in the same period, from 81.1% to

The unemployment rate for adult women in July was 7.6% compared to 7.1% in June. Adult male unemployment at 6.1%, was virtually unchanged from 6% in June. Unemployment among heads of households climbed to 5.4% from 5.1%.

Teen-agers and blacks, the groups hardest hit by unemployment, gained in July, as teen-age unemployment fell from 18.4% to 18.1% and black joblessness fell from 13.3%

The severity of unemployment moderated somewhat, with the average duration falling trom 16 9 weeks in June to 15.8 weeks in Ju-

The rise in the unemployment rate "is obviously unwelcome news," said Kendrick. But as you look at the detail you come up with the impression there's no undue cause tor alarm.

But Meany, who supports Democratic candidate Jimmy Carter for president, said "the economic situation is getting worse, not better, as the President's advisers claim.'

Search Concentrates On

Doctors said Friday they are concentrating their search for the cause of "legionnaire's disease" on toxins — or poisons. But they conceded that the list of toxins was almost endless and repeated that they may never know what killed the 25 men and women who have died in the mysterious outbreak.

Doctors here and at the federal Center for Disease Control in Atlanta said, meanwhile, that the outbreak appears to be tapering off.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Friday, there have been no new cases of the disease reported since Tuesday. "I do believe the guarded optimism we are showing is appropriate," he said. The two who were added to the death toll died earlier in the week, but had been listed as having suffered other diseases.

Dr. David Sencer, director of the federal Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, agreed. "The epidemic has peaked and is on its way out," he said at a news conference at the center.

The doctors moved closer to State Health Secretary knowing what the disease is not: Leonard Bachman said that it is not any type of flu. It is not although the death toll was of- caused by bacteria or fungus. It emphasized that no secondary infections have been found, meaning the disease is not contagious. It has been limited to persons connected with a state American Legion convention here last month.

An estimated 10,000 attended the convention, and doctors now say 108 persons contracted the disease. A few remain in critical condition.

Researchers at the CDC and a state laboratory in Philadelphia have hunted nonstop for the cause of the disease since it was diagnosed on Monday.

Sencer said the CDC was now concentrating on toxins, which far fetched.

Sencer and Bachman also could appear in such common items as plastics, paper, soap, eigarettes, food, water or just about anything the conventioneers came in contact with.

A toxin is a poison. Some chemicals are toxins by their very nature. Arsenic and cynanide are examples. Others are toxic because of their volume. For example, salt is not toxic to humans in small doses but a cup of salt in a baby's milk would be toxic.

Toxins can occur naturally or they can be manmade, raising again the question of whether sabotage is a possibility. 🔸 number of Americans went job hunting in July, swelling the ranks of workers but also pushing the unemployment rate up to 7.8%, the government reported Friday.

Bachman believes sabotage is

7.4 Million Out Of Work; Administration Not Alarmed

The increase in unemployment was the second in two months, coming after jobless rates of 7.5% in June and 7.3% in May.

Administration economists saw no cause for alarm, but AFL-CIO President George Meany said the increases justify turning President Ford out of office.

The Labor Department said total employment increased by some 400,000 to a record 87.9 million persons in July. But the number of individuals who unsuccessfully sought Nork climbed by 280,000 to 7.4 million.

The 7.8% unemployment rate was the highest since an identical percentage of workers was unemployed in January. But since the labor force is steadily growing, the actual number of unemployed represented the greatest number since 7.7 million persons were unable to find employment last

The latest increase would appear to make it difficult for the administration to achieve is forecast of reducing unemployment to less than 7% by the year's end. However, women's role in society.

1,000 Officials Convicted Of Corruption Since 1970

Richard Thornburgh said Friday federal prosecutors have won convictions of an estimated 1,000 federal, state and local officials for corruption in office since 1970.

Thornburgh said the Justice Department riminal Division is using immunity laws, mail fraud statutes and old laws against labor racketeering to get convictions in difficult extortion and bribery cases.

But he told Chicago's Better Government Association the increasing numbers of convictions does not necessarily mean there is more corruption than in the past.

"The fact is," he said, "that there have been, by best estimates, on the order of 1,000 federal, state and local public officials convicted since 1970 of federal crimes relating to their conduct in

Second Place A Problem

The judgment used by recent Republican presidents or would-be presidents in choosing their vice presidents seems suspect.

Republicans are not alone in the field. of course, but it is the second place on this year's GOP national ticket around which speculation and controversy now builds.

To go back a ways, Dwight Eisenhower chose Richard Nixon (or Nixon was chosen for him), who was almost bumped from the ticket at the end of Ike's first term. Nixon went on to greater and worse things; mainly, the wildest up and down career in the history of politics, capped by his resignation to escape impeachment. Nixon in his first run at the White House chose Henry Cabot Lodge to team with him and it probably was his safest choice, although the GOP ticket lost - narrowly. In 1968, Nixon chose Spiro Agnew, who had to resign his office to escape jail. Nixon then chose Gerald Ford, who pardoned him and is now in the worst political trouble of any incumbent president in over 50 years.

Ford's rival for the Republican nomination, Ronald Reagan, stunned his hard-core conservative support with the choice of a northeastern liberal Republican as his running mate should he win the nomination. That is something he said earlier would be foolish for a Republican presidential nominee to do, and that prophecy may be fulfilled. Although the nomination is still in the balance, it -appears that Reagan's gains in the northeast resulting from his choice of Schweiker will be minimal and will be negated by defections by erstwhile conservatives supporters appalled at such shallow opportunism. It would appear from Reagan's complete about-face in the matter of choosing a running mate that the former California governor really doesn't want to be president. And it suggests that Reagan lacks the judgment and commitment to be president. Not that Schweiker is bad; to the contrary, he has been a reasonably good senator. But the Pennsylvanian is the prime example of everything Reagan has opposed in his party up until a dozen days ago. Reagan's explanation that this shotgun marriage on the eye of the week the GOP will give birth to a ticket is meant to unite the party for victory in November is too much to swallow - given the desperate preconvention circumstances in which Reagan found himself before the Schweiker announce-

As Reagan may sink with Schweiker, Ford would probably do no better with John Connally, upon whom speculation now centers. The Texan reportedly has been tabbed to give the President's nominating speech and Ford also reportedly has asked former special prosecutor Leon Jaworski, himself a Texan, to check out Connally's involvement in the Nixon

Despite warnings from liberal and moderate Republicans in the Congress that Connally will not sell in the east and the north, and that he will dredge up too many memories of Watergate, Ford seems sold on Connally, as was Nixon.

In view of Connally's shady, wheelerdealer, opportunistic image, notwithstanding his acquittal, Ford might just as well choose Nixon to run with him. Nixon was never convicted of anything, either.

Douglas Defends Stand

State Attorney General Paul Douglas has found help in past Nebraska Supreme Court rulings in defending his stance that the State Justice Department has "a constitutional and ethical duty" to advise not implementing a law if there is a chance the courts may ultimately throw it out.

Specifically, Douglas points to a court injunction that when "an act of the Legislature and the Constitution conflict, the Constitution must be obeyed and the statute disregarded."

An opinion requested of the justice department can serve as an administrator's guideline until the courts determine a law's validity, Douglas said.

The issue has boiled over again with regard to the state's new medical maipractice law, which Douglas advised the state insurance department not to implement on the grounds that it is "constitutionally would no longer be an asset to President Ford during the fall campaign against Jimmy Carter. For this reason, he doubts that President Ford will, if nominated, choose Reagan as his runningmate.

Rhodes, who discussed the vice presidential matter with the President last week and who is one of Mr. Ford's closest political friends, said he thought Treasury Secretary William Simon was "coming up strong" as a vice presidential possibility on a Ford ticket.

However, he did not mean to imply that Simon was on the top of President Ford's list of vice presidential possibilities. He does not know whether President Ford has a definite choice ın mind yet.

The fact that Simon is being seriously considered did not come as a complete surprise to political observers in Washington, since he has been mentioned in White House circles recently as a possibility. Once described by an admiring senator as "the greatest secretary of the Treasury since Alexander Hamilton," the youthful-looking, outspoken 48-year-old ex-Wall Street trading expert and self-made millionaire is chairman of President Ford's Economic Policy Board. Generally recognized as one of the country's leading economists, he has played a leading role in formulating the Ford administration's recovery programs. Rhodes described Simon as a man who "makes a lot of sense" and is a "good speaker." However, he lacks a political base and his Wall Street background could make him vulnerable to attack by the liberal Carter-Mondale team. * * *

While recent polls have indicated that a majority of the Republican delegates would favor John Connally as a runningmate for either Ford or Reagan, Rhodes does not share the view that an open convention would go all-out for the former Texas governor as the vice presidential nominee on President Ford's ticket.

It is recognized that Connaily would undoubtedly be a great asset to President Ford in the been so undermined that he Sun Belt area, but it is believed he would be vulnerable in the North because of his ties with former President Nixon and the role he played as Treasury Secretary in urging increased milk price supports, although be was acquitted on charges of accepting milk lobby payoffs.

Nevertheless, Connally is expected to be high on the list of the five vice presidential possibilities that President Ford has asked the 4,518 delegates and alternate delegates to the Republican convention to submit to him by August 11.

Furthermore, President Ford has repeatedly made it clear that he holds Connally in high regard. He told Hearst editors and publishers earlier this year that he considered Connally "one of the most able public officials I have ever known.'

Connally, who had been hoping that he would get the second spot on either a Ford or Reagan ticket and therefore did not come out for either, rushed to the White House to endorse President Ford immediately after Reagan's selection of Schweiker. He has been chosen to make one of the three nominating speeches for President Ford at the convention.

소 차 화 Some of Ford's advisers, including Vice President Nelson Rockefeller, doubt that Mr. Ford can win in November without taking a substantial amount of existing Southern support away from Carter, and they are convinced Connally is the best bet to do that.

Others, however, think President Ford would be better off with a non-controversial figure, such as Tennessee Sen. Howard Baker. Rhodes indicated he feels this way. He described Baker as a middle-of-the-roader who wouldn't hurt President Ford anywhere. The 60-year-old Arizona conservative, who has served in Congress for 26 years and is considered a skillful leader of the House Republicans, foresees a first-ballot presidential nomination at the convention. In the unlikely event of a deadlock between Ford and Reagan, he thinks Connally and Rockefeller would make a bid for the nomination after the second ballot.

WASHINGTON - Freedom of the press, like all liberties, is never totally secure. It is a fragile thing, threatened by those who see the First Amendment as an inconvenience or an outright danger or something between and, sometimes, by the excesses of the press itself.

So even in the best of times, the condition of press freedom must be described as "guarded," to use the hospital term. That is, it isn't great but there is no reason as yet to call in the relatives.

The place the press feels most endangered these days is in the courts. There, the threats come in two forms, both related to the constitutional conflict between the First Amendment, which says that the press shall be free, and the Sixth Amendment, which says that persons accused of crimes are entitled to a speedy, public trial by an impartial jury.

Judges, whose primary concern must be the Sixth Amendment, have shown a growing tendency to impose restrictions on the right of the press to report court matters. They sometimes go so far as to ban publication of events that occur in open court and to issue advance orders -"prior restraints" -- against the publication of certain facts and background information. These orders are defended on the grounds that without them, the accused person's right to an impartial jury is jeopardized. The press takes the position that the Constitution bars prior restraint and that the public has a right to know what is going on in the criminal justice system. And there the issue is joined.

호 호 호 The courts also insist that, in certain circumstances, it is necessary for news people to disclose their sources of information. The press, of course, has a tradition of protecting confidential sources even if it means going to jail. There again the issue is joined.

is in this atmosphere of continuing and seemingly irreconcilable conflict that a number of recent developments are worth noting.

The most significant was the U.S. Supreme Court decision of June 30 striking down the so-called Nebraska gag

The Nebraska order had severely restricted the publication of news about a sensational murder trial pending selection of a jury. It provided, for example. that the press could not report that the accused had confessed, although that information had come out in an open

In its decision, the Supreme Court did not ban all pre-trial press restraints. But it warned judges that "prior restraints on speech and publication are the most serious and least tolerable infringements on First Amendment rights."

When it was handed down, the decision was hailed rightly as a victory for freedom of the press. Since then, its tone number of other developments that news people find heartening.

Nebraska Case Reflected In Others

-The U.S. Court of Appeals in Richmond struck down an order sealing court papers in connection with the corruption trial of Gov. Marvin Mandel of Maryland. In so doing it called the sealing of the papers "an unnecessary prior restraint on freedom of the press" and therefore a violation of the First Amendment. In no that a effect, the court was cannot seal documents to attain the same ends as a gag order.

—At about the same time, a judge in Los Angeles refused to seal the will of William Randolph Hearst, saying that to do so would be tantamount to denying the public its right to know what was happening in probate court.

-In a Washington, D.C., libel case, a federal judge ruled that a corporation, the Martin-Marietta Corp., was a "public figure" as defined by libel laws. Therefore, the judge said, the corporation could not win its libel suit against The Washington Star unless it could convincingly prove "actual malice," which, he found, it had not done. The fodge said his decision advanced "the First Amendment policy of shielding the press from harassment.

-In Florida, the state Supreme court threw out a contempt of court conviction of a reporter who refused to disclose a confidential source. The court ruled that,

> -And in Richmond, a federal appeals court upheld the right of two reporters to refuse to testify concerning a meeting they had attended. The court said it was missing contempt citations because the information the reporters declined to give could have been obtained from other sources. It noted the danger of "sterilizing the sources of newsworthy items" by forcing such testimony.

All is not rosy, of course. There are several cases pending that news people find wormsome. In one, a California reporter has already served time for refusing to tell who gave him information in violation of a gag order in the trial of Charles Manson. And in another, four members of the staff of the Fresno (Calif.) Bee are facing jail for refusing to tell how they got information from a sealed grand jury transcript.

So the patient is not totally out of danger — and probably never will be. That may be all to the good. The court tests have value as reminders to news people that, like all citizens, they have responsibilities that go beyond the First Amendment.

Second Place A Problem

The judgment used by recent Republican presidents or would-be presidents in choosing their vice presidents seems suspect.

Republicans are not alone in the field, of course, but it is the second place on this year's GOP national ticket around which speculation and controversy now builds.

To go back a ways, Dwight Eisenhower chose Richard Nixon (or Nixon was chosen for him), who was almost bumped from the ticket at the end of Ike's first term. Nixon went on to greater and worse things; mainly, the wildest up and down career in the history of politics, capped by his resignation to escape impeachment. Nixon in his first run at the White House chose Henry Cabot Lodge to team with him and it probably was his safest choice, although the GOP ticket lost - narrowly. In 1968, Nixon chose Spiro Agnew, who had to resign his office to escape jail. Nixon then chose Gerald Ford, who pardoned him and is now in the worst political trouble of any incumbent president in over 50 years.

Ford's rival for the Republican nomination, Ronald Reagan, stunned his hard-core conservative support with the choice of a northeastern liberal Republican as his running mate should he win the nomination. That is something he said earlier would be foolish for a Republican presidential nominee to do, and that prophecy may be fulfilled. Although the nomination is still in the balance, it appears that Reagan's gains in the northeast resulting from his choice of Schweiker will be minimal and will be negated by defections by erstwhile conservatives supporters appalled at such shallow opportunism. It would appear from Reagan's complete about-face in the matter of choosing a running mate that the former California governor really doesn't want to be president. And it suggests that Reagan lacks the judgment and commitment to be president. Not that Schweiker is bad; to the contrary, he has been a reasonably good senator. But the Pennsylvanian is the prime example of everything Reagan has opposed in his party up until a dozen days ago. Reagan's explanation that this shotgun marriage on the eve of the week the GOP will give birth to a ticket is meant to unite the party for victory in November is too much to swallow - given the desperate preconvention circumstances in which Reagan found himself before the Schweiker announce-

As Reagan may sink with Schweiker, Ford would probably do no better with John Connally, upon whom speculation now centers. The Texan reportedly has been tabbed to give the President's nominating speech and Ford also reportedly has asked former special prosecutor Leon Jaworski, himself a Texan, to check out Connally's involvement in the Nixon

Despite warnings from liberal and moderate Republicans in the Congress that Connally will not sell in the east and the north, and that he will dredge up too many memories of Watergate, Ford seems sold on Connally, as was Nixon.

In view of Connally's shady, wheelerdealer, opportunistic image, notwithstanding his acquittal, Ford might just as well choose Nixon to run with him. Nixon was never convicted of anything, either.

Douglas Defends Stand

State Attorney General Paul Douglas has found help in past Nebraska Supreme Court rulings in defending his stance that the State Justice Department has "a constitutional and ethical duty" to advise not implementing a law if there is a chance the courts may ultimately throw it out.

Specifically, Douglas points to a court injunction that when "an act of the Legislature and the Constitution conflict, the Constitution must be obeyed and the statute disregarded."

An opinion requested of the justice department can serve as an administrator's guideline until the courts determine a law's validity, Douglas said.

The issue has boiled over again with regard to the state's new medical malpractice law, which Douglas advised the state insurance department not to implement on the grounds that it is "constitutionally

Douglas's contention that administrators, upon the attorney general's advice, should forego the time and expense of implementing a constitutionally suspect law is reasonable in our opinion.

If the Legislature can accuse the attorney general of negating its powers and setting himself up as a one-man Supreme Court, allowing that office and the executive branch to act hand-in-hand in nullifying the Legislature's work, the Legislature can also be charged with passing bad law to remove itself from a politically pressure-packed situation.

We'd rather not attribute bad motives to either branch.

Douglas's position is sound. The key to clearing up such situations is in obtaining court tests before the effective date of questionable legislation.

Robertson noted that area directors have found an adversary relationship with the board because of a lack of communication. Zeitlow said that the directors have "something to offer" in the way of ideas about the overall program and would like to have a chance to meet with the commission to plan any further action.

During the granting of money for the Title VII and other programs the issue of "carry-over funds" was brought out. In the past the commission has let the area aging agency keep that money for capital outlay or expanded programs.

"Indeed this commission will have to address itself to carry-over monies in the future," Soukup said in indicating that some "belt-tightening" may loom on the horizon.

Car Toll Worries State Officials

State officials Friday questioned the nation's continuing attention to deaths from the recent Colorado flood and Pennsylvania virus mystery when a bigger catastrophe is occurring in Nebraska. Compared to those two natural tragedies that make news, state highway accidents have killed almost twice as many people since January, said Jim Pearson, Motor Vehicles Department direc-

"We think it's quite a problem," Pearson said at a Governor's Highway Safety Advisory Committee session to draw attention to the need for "driver responsibility."

Pearson said 14 people were killed on Nebraska highways to date in August. "That's one every 10 hours," Pearson said. It compares to three deaths during the same period last year. In 1976, "The alarming facts are that we have lost 205 people" in motor vehicle fatalities. Of 136 accidents in which deaths occurred, 45 involved alcohol. The number of railroad crossingconnected deaths, 12, is the same as last year at "We're just getting into Nebraska's peak acci-

According to the Nebraska Highway Safety Program, which Pearson also directs, the state traffic toll in 1975 listed 38,975 accidents. Of that total, 322 involved deaths, 14,054 injuries and 24,-599 property damage.

Trauger Oldtimers Day Like Second Christmas

By DEAN TERRILL Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Exeter - Christmas comes only once a year for Bob Trauger, the same as everyone else. But he has just as much fun the second Sunday of every August.

That's the day the 48-year-old farmer winds up his super-size toys and invites "the neighborhood." Usually it totals at least 4,000 persons from several states.

A collector of antique farm machinery, Trauger, with his family, will spend this Sunday as host at their 8th annual Oldtimers Day. The "very much nonprofit" event is staged on the family farm one mile east and one south of Toys? Tons and tons, with six restored steam engines to be fired up as the day's main fun. The colorful relics - their boilers all stateinspected - range from a 6-horsepower portable Frick to such behemoths as a 1919 Port Huron 10.

With guest entries welcome, at 1:30 p.m. "Cavalcade of Power" should see approximately 20 of the fire-belching oldies on parade. Also to be featured is an evolution of threshing, including the crude flail and an 1831 hand-cranked

Gerald Whelan Visible—Why Not?

Associated Press Writer

Without a poll to back up such a statement at is probably nonetheless safe to say that most political observers would classify Gerald Whelan as a highly visible beutenant governor

He is energetic and has undertaken some kev assignments for Gov J James Exon.

He has been at the forefront of projects involving energy study, conservation and a proposal to locate an institute for the study of energy problems in Nebraska

He chairs a commission looking into the reduction of government paperwork, he is active in promoting and maintaining the historical value of the State Capitol

In a recent interview, Whelan noted that the press has occasionally taken notice of his visibility He is not angered, but appears puzzled

by some of the reaction to his work. It has been implied that I'm doing these things, and making public appearances, simply for political purposes and that just isn't true." Whelan said

Whelan may be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor in 1976 A number of ranking Republican acknowledge, at least privately, that he could be a hard man to beat

Whelan is concerned because he doesn't want the projects he is working on to be viewed as politically inspired

I wasn't elected to sit around like a bump on a log. I don't think any beutenant governor should do that," Whelan said.

Whelan was the first bevienant governor elected in modern times on a governorheutenant governor ticket.

That makes me part of the administration." Whelan said, and Exon has assigned him duties accordingly.

If there are political benefits to his being lieutenant governor, they are inherent in the job and would apply to anyone who had the office

If I got a publicist to say that I'm just doing my job and responding to requests for my time as a speaker, it would look like I'm on the defensive, Whelan said

On the other hand, Whelan acknowledges, his critics could be viewed as looking down the road to a possible gubernatorial race and trying to damage his image before hand

In any event, Whelan makes no secret of the fact that he is enjoying his various assignments, ranging from energy to historical preservation of the Capitol, and gives no indication that he intends to lower his profile regardless of criticism

Trauger Oldtimers Day Like Second Christmas

By DEAN TERRILL Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Exeter — Christmas comes only once a year for Bob Trauger, the same as everyone else. But he has just as much fun the second Sunday of every August

That's the day the 48-year-old farmer winds up his super-size toys and invites "the neighborhood." Usually it totals at least 4,000 persons from several states.

A collector of antique farm machinery, Trauger, with his family, will spend this Sunday as host at their 8th annual Oldtimers Day. The "very much nonprofit" event is staged on the family farm one mile east and one south of

Gerald Whelan Visible—Why Not?

By ED HOWARD Associated Press Writer

Without a poll to back up such a statement, it is probably nonetheless safe to say that most political observers would classify Gerald Whelan as a highly visible lieutenant governor.

He is energetic and has undertaken some key assignments for Gov. J. James Exon.

He has been at the forefront of projects involving energy study, conservation and a proposal to locate an institute for the study of energy problems in Nebraska.

He chairs a commission looking into the reduction of government paperwork; he is active in promoting and maintaining the historical value of the State Capitol Building.

In a recent interview, Whelan noted that the press has occasionally taken notice of his visibility. He is not angered, but appears puzzled by some of the reaction to his work. "It has been implied that I'm doing these things, and making public appearances, simply for political purposes and that just isn't true," Whelan said

Whelan may be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor in 1976. A number of ranking Republican acknowledge, at least privately, that he could be a hard man to beat.

Whelan is concerned because he doesn't want the projects he is working on to be viewed as politically inspired.

"I wasn't elected to sit around like a bump on a log, I don't think any lieutenant governor should do that," Whelan said.

Whelan was the first lieutenant governor elected in modern times on a governorlieutenant governor ticket.

"That makes me part of the administration," Whelan said, and Exon has assigned him duties accordingly.

If there are political benefits to his being lieutenant governor, they are inherent in the job and would apply to anyone who had

"If I got a publicist to say that I'm just doing my job and responding to requests for my time as a speaker, it would look like I'm on the defensive," Whelan said.

On the other hand, Whelan acknowledges, his critics could be viewed as looking down the road to a possible gubernatorial race and trying to damage his image before hand.

In any event, Whelan makes no secret of the fact that he is enjoying his various assignments, ranging from energy to historical preservation of the Capitol, and gives no indication that he intends to lower his profile regardless of criticism.

Beatlemania Returns

By JIM CAMDEN Star Staff Writer

The Beatles are alive and well, and living in the hearts of their fans.

That is the feeling one gets from talking to Lee Aronsohn, owner of Trade-A-Tape & Records and the Comicenter at 1127 P. Aronsohn should know, because part of his living comes from supplying Beatle memorabilia to those fans.

Because of a recent ad campaign by Capitol Records Co., music from the Beatles, the four-man British rock group that changed the face of rock and roll music in the '60s, is once again filling the airwaves.

But it's not new music. The Beatles disbanded in 1971 and have not played as a group since. Today's Top 40 radio stations are playing the same Beatle tunes they played more than 10 years ago.

Capitol's new record, a collection of Beatle hits, is selling well across the country, according to Variety magazine. So are three other old Beatle albums.

Aronsohn attributes the resurging popularity to the quality of the group's music and to a certain nostalgia. "It's better than new music," he said. "For many people, the '60s were good times.' People have been expecting a new group to come along to change music the way the Beatles did. Aronsohn said, but it hasn't happened. So a lot of old fans cling to the Beatles.

And the ones that really cling hard can mean money

"I can sell anything that has to do with the Beatles," he said. "I've got customers who don't care if it's old or new, anything.

He sells old albums and 45's with their paper jackets; fan magazines about the group - and copies of Time or Life that have stories or interviews with the musicians; inflatable dolls and bubble gum cards that came out in the mid-60s; and anything else that is by, or about, the Beatles.

"My problem is one of supply," Aronsohn said. "I can't meet the demand. There's plenty of stuff lying around; the problem is finding it before it gets thrown out or burned.

The demand is not based on the recent ad promotion, Aronsohn said. Collectors have been around for years. But a new wave of collectors may be spawned by the recent resurgence.

Local radio stations reported an increase in requests for Beatles songs and a corresponding rise in the number of those songs played on the air. Fred James, KLMS Radio program director, said his station averages about one request an hour for the old tunes, and the station usually plays about two Beatle records in

Joe Blood, KFMQ radio director, said his station is playing more Beatles tunes lately than usual, about one every other hour. "The songs hold up as well as anything released recently," he said.

Representatives of local record stores described sales of the new album as fair to good. Sales of the older records have always been good, some added.

Aronsohn has found some real bargains in Beatlemania. He once bought a copy of an old Beatle record in poor condition for 50 cents. However, that particular album, "Yesterday and Today," originally had a controversial cover showing a decapitated doll. When the record was released in America, the first copies had another cover pasted over the banned picture. One day Aronsohn noticed the cover on the album he bought was a little different than others. He steamed off the top cover and sold the album for $75.

But there aren't many bargains like that anymore, he said. He frequents auctions and garage sales, but people are more aware of the worth of old items.

There was a time when I could have picked things up for 75 cents a piece that now I'll have to pay $50 for,

Of course, there are fans and then there are fanatics, Aronsohn said. He once had an employe who worked at the store for three months. The worker never took cash for his wages; he just took Beatle items as

And if anyone thinks Aronsohn has a low regard for Beatle freaks who pay him big money in their quest to till their collections, nothing could be further from the

Food Survey Items Rise 16.3% Over Three Years

By GRACIA McANDREW Star Staff Writer

Three years ago, when the Lincoln Star started its monthly grocery price check, consumers were paying an average of $12.12 for the 17 surveyed food items.

But inflation has taken its toll. Today, the same 17 items are costing approximately $14.10, an increase of $1.98 or 16.3%

Two years ago, the tally for the same food items at three chain stores and one locally owned store in Lincoln was $12.53. $1.57 or 12.5% less than this month's food total

Few of the food items have decreased in price during the past three years. In fact, most of the items have increased substantially.

Starting with the good news, ground beef has declined 20 cents and round steak costs 28 cents less today than it did three years ago.

Other items showing only nominal increases during the same period were chicken which rose only one cent per pound, eggs which increased two cents per dozen and canned green beans which have jumped only four cents.

But the remaining 12 survey items are among the culprits that have continued to push food prices up. They include: pork and beans up 15 cents: bacon higher by 49 cents; pork chops rising by 13 cents per pound; milk increasing by 28 cents per half gallon; tuna jumping by 20 cents; frozen peas up by 21 cents; spaghetti rising by 19 cents; flour climbing 22 cents; peaches increasing by 11 cents; peanut butter 21 cents higher; ketchup up 19 cents; and bread costing 10 cents more per

However, during the past month the survey total has declined four cents or nearly .3% from July s $14.14 tool.

This month's $14.10 also is seven cents or .5% less than $14.17 total of six month's ago, and 18 cents or nearly 1.3% less than the $14.28 tally of one year ago.

Among the items contributing to the overall decline are frozen peas, which dropped two cents to 59 cents for a 10-ounce package; ground beef which declined six cents from 82 cents last month to 76 cents this month; round steak which decreased 14 cents to $1.43 per pound; and pork chops which fell four cents to $1.90 per pound.

The decline in the price of beef products is due primarily to larger than expected beef supplies, according to a recent American National Cattlemen's Association (ANCA) news release.

There has been talk recently about the inflation rate picking up," said Wray Finney, ANCA president, "but beef is one food product that is much lower than a year ago.

Because of increased costs and lower prices. cattlemen again are losing large sums of money. so there eventually will be reductions in supplies and higher prices," he added.

Locally, round steak has declined 36 cents per pound from $1.79 and ground beef has dropped 14 cents from 90 cents per pound since August 1975.

Items sporting nominal increases this month were flour which increased one cent to 98 cents for a five-pound bag, peaches which rose one cent to 47 cents for a 16-ounce can, and ketchup which costs two cents more - 52 cents for a 14-ounce

Eggs and tuna each climbed six cents in price this month. Consumers are now paying 80 cents for every Grade A Large dozen of eggs and 70 cents for each six-and-one-half-ounce can of tuna.

Also on the list of higher priced food products was bacon which rose to $2.04 per pound, now five cents more than last month. However, one year ago shoppers were paying approximately $2.19 per pound for bacon.

Items maintaining stable prices during the last month were chicken at 63 cents per pound. milk at 88 cents per half gallon, spaghetti at 52 cents for a 16-ounce package, green beans at 35 cents for a 16-ounce can, pork and beans at 32 cents for a 16-ounce can, peanut butter at 74 cents for a 12-ounce jar, and bread at 45 cents for a onepound loaf.

Although not included in the survey total. the price of beet sugar stayed at $1.10 for a five pound bag during the past month and cane sugar

Beatlemania Returns

By JIM CAMDEN Star Staff Writer

The Beatles are alive and well, and living in the hearts of their fans.

That is the feeling one gets from talking to Lee Aronsohn, owner of Trade-A-Tape & Records and the Comicenter at 1127 P. Aronsohn should know, because part of his living comes from supplying Beatle memorabilia to those fans.

Because of a recent ad campaign by Capitol Records Co., music from the Beatles, the four-man British rock group that changed the face of rock and roll music in the '60s, is once again filling the airwaves.

But it's not new music. The Beatles disbanded in 1971 and have not played as a group since. Today's Top 40 radio stations are playing the same Beatle tunes they played more than 10 years ago.

Capitol's new record, a collection of Beatle hits, is selling well across the country, according to Variety magazine. So are three other old Beatle albums.

Aronsohn attributes the resurging popularity to the quality of the group's music and to a certain nostalgia. "It's better than new music," he said. "For many people, the '60s were good times. People have been expecting a new group to come along to change music the way the Beatles did, Aronsohn said, but it hasn't happened. So a lot of old fans

cling to the Beatles And the ones that really cling hard can mean money

"I can sell anything that has to do with the Beatles," he said. "I've got customers who don't care if it's old or new, anything.

He sells old albums and 45's with their paper jackets; fan magazines about the group - and copies of Time or Life that have stories or interviews with the musicians; inflatable dolls and bubble gum cards that came out in the mid-60s; and anything else that is by, or about, the Beatles.

"My problem is one of supply," Aronsohn said. "I can't meet the demand. There's plenty of stuff lying around; the problem is finding it before it gets thrown

The demand is not based on the recent ad promotion, Aronsohn said. Collectors have been around for years. But a new wave of collectors may be spawned by the recent resurgence.

Local radio stations reported an increase in requests for Beatles songs and a corresponding rise in the number of those songs played on the air. Fred James, KLMS Radio program director, said his station averages about one request an hour for the old tunes, and the station usually plays about two Beatle records in

Joe Blood, KFMQ radio director, said his station is playing more Beatles tunes lately than usual, about one every other hour. "The songs hold up as well as anything released recently," he said. Representatives of local record stores described sales of the new album as fair to good. Sales of the older records have always been good, some added.

Aronsohn has found some real bargains in Beatlemania. He once bought a copy of an old Beatle record in poor condition for 50 cents. However, that particular album, "Yesterday and Today," originally had a controversial cover showing a decapitated doll. When the record was released in America, the first copies had another cover pasted over the banned picture. One day Aronsohn noticed the cover on the album he bought was a little different than others. He steamed off the top cover and sold the album for $75.

But there aren't many bargains like that anymore, he said. He frequents auctions and garage sales, but people are more aware of the worth of old items.

There was a time when I could have picked things up for 75 cents a piece that now I'll have to pay $50 for,'

Of course, there are fans and then there are fanatics, Aronsohn said. He once had an employe who worked at the store for three months. The worker never took cash for his wages; he just took Beatle items as

And if anyone thinks Aronsohn has a low regard for Beatle freaks who pay him big money in their quest to fill their collections, nothing could be further from the

Food Survey Items Rise 16.3% Over Three Years

SOME MEMORABILIA . . . From Dave Robel's collection.

By GRACIA McANDREW

Star Staff Writer Three years ago, when the Lincoln Star started its monthly grocery price check, consumers were paying an average of $12.12 for the 17 surveyed food items.

But inflation has taken its toll. Today, the same 17 items are costing approximately $14.10, an increase of $1.98 or 16.3% Two years ago, the tally items at three chain stores and one locally owned store in Lincoln was $12.53, $1.57 or 12.5% less than this month's food total

Few of the food items have decreased in price during the past three years. In fact, most of the items have increased substantially.

Starting with the good news, ground beef has declined 20 cents and round steak costs 28 cents less today than it did three years ago.

Other items showing only nominal increases during the same period were chicken which rose only one cent per pound, eggs which increased two cents per dozen and canned green beans which have jumped only four cents.

But the remaining 12 survey items are among the culprits that have continued to push food prices up. They include: pork and beans up 15 cents; bacon higher by 49 cents; pork chops rising by 13 cents per pound; milk increasing by 28 cents per half gallon; tuna jumping by 20 cents; frozen peas up by 21 cents; spaghetti rising by 19 cents; flour climbing 22 cents; peaches increasing by 11 cents; peanut butter 21 cents higher; ketchup up 19 cents; and bread costing 10 cents more per

However, during the past month the survey total has declined four cents or nearly .3% from July's $14.14 toal.

This month's $14.10 also is seven cents or .5% less than $14.17 total of six month's ago, and 18 cents or nearly 1.3% less than the $14.28 tally of

Among the items contributing to the overall decline are frozen peas, which dropped two cents to 59 cents for a 10-ounce package; ground beef

chops which fell four cents to $1.90 per pound. The decline in the price of beef products is due primarily to larger than expected beef supplies, according to a recent American National Cattlemen's Association (ANCA) news release.

There has been talk recently about the inflaon rate picking up." said Wray Finney, ANCA president, "but beef is one food product that is much lower than a year ago.

Because of increased costs and lower prices, cattlemen again are losing large sums of money, so there eventually will be reductions in supplies and higher prices," he added.

Locally, round steak has declined 36 cents per pound from $1.79 and ground beef has dropped 14 cents from 90 cents per pound since August 1975.

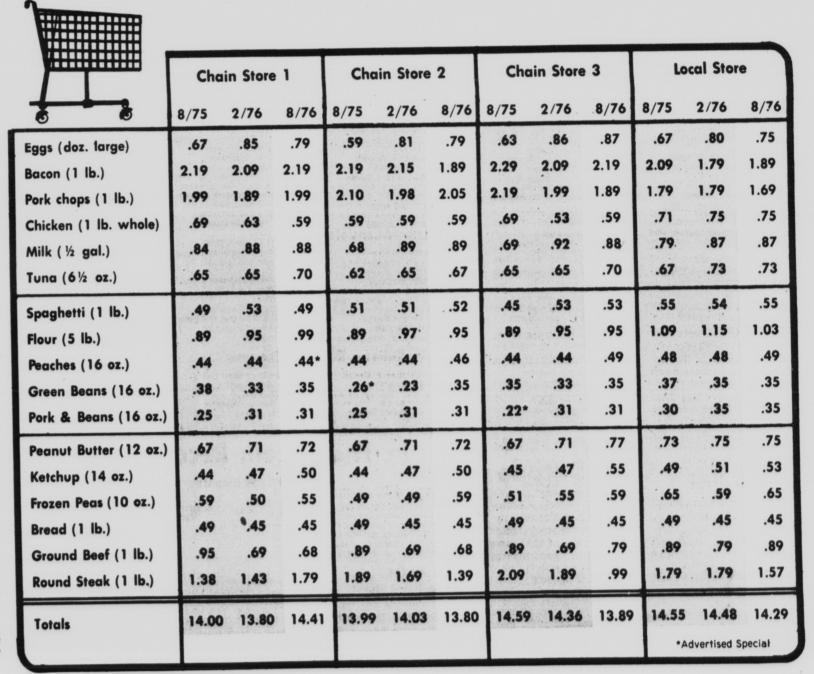

Items sporting nominal increases this month were flour which increased one cent to 98 cents for a five-pound bag, peaches which rose one cent to 47 cents for a 16-ounce can, and ketchup which costs two cents more - 52 cents for a 14-ounce

Eggs and tuna each climbed six cents in price this month. Consumers are now paying 80 cents for every Grade A Large dozen of eggs and 70 cents for each six-and-one-half-ounce can of tuna.

Also on the list of higher priced food products was bacon which rose to $2.04 per pound, now five cents more than last month. However, one vear ago shoppers were paying approximately $2.19 per pound for bacon.

Items maintaining stable prices during the last month were chicken at 63 cents per pound, milk at 88 cents per half gallon, spaghetti at 52 cents for a 16-ounce package, green beans at 35 cents for a 16-ounce can, pork and beans at 32 cents for a 16-ounce can, peanut butter at 74 cents for a 12-ounce jar, and bread at 45 cents for a onepound loaf.

Although not included in the survey total, the price of beet sugar stayed at $1.10 for a five pound bag during the past month and cane sugar held at $1.21.

Lincoln Man Charged In Fireman's Assault

charged in Lancaster County Court Friday with assaulting a fire fighter with a knife.

Raymond W. Jurgens, of 3055 S St., was charged with one count of assault with intent to inflict great bodily injury in connection with an incident Thursday night at his home.

A 51-year-old Lincoln man was from the stretcher, Jurgens pulled a knife, police said.

He slashed at the fire fighter, cutting through his shirt. Police said Leyden's badge took the brunt of the knife thrust, which probably kept the fire fighter from being seriously injured. Police arrested Jurgens at the house.

Leyden was treated and released from a local hospital for a minor cut on his chest.

Mrs. Jurgens was reported in good condition at a local hospital Friday night.

County Judge Jeffre Cheuvront said he will set a preliminary hearing date Aug. 17. Bond was set at $2,000.

If convicted of the felony offense, Jurgens could be sentenced to serve from one to 20 years in prison.

Four Caught In Drug Raid Lincoln police arrested four marijuana, some hashish and persons in a drug raid Thursday night at 930 Van Dorn St. Three men and a woman, all under 21 years of age, were being held in connection with the sale and delivery of controlled substances, police said. In the raid police netted what appeared to be 32 pounds of some heroin, as well as a variety of drug paraphernalia. The seized substances are being tested for identification, police said. The raid culminated a lengthy investigation by police, aided by the county sheriff's officers and the State Patrol.

Chamber Raps Hamilton Claim The Lincoln Chamber of after a Planning Commission

Commerce has expressed concern over County Commissioner Bruce Hamilton's reported allegation earlier this week that "growth conspiracy" was involved in Lincoln's proposed new street plan. In a letter from chamber president Leo Beck to Hamilton, the chamber called the commissioner's statements "highly irresponsible." Earlier this week meeting, Hamilton said that "monted and growth-oriented businesses" had conspired with members of the Planning Commission in developing the street plan. The chamber's letter said that the Planning Commission's unanimous decision represented "the very essence of citizen in-

A 51-year-old Lincoln man was from the stretcher, Jurgens charged in Lancaster County Court Friday with assaulting a fire fighter with a knife.

Raymond W. Jurgens, of 3055 S St., was charged with one count of assault with intent to inflict great bodily injury in connection with an incident Thursday night at his home.

Police said fire fighter Gary Levden was answering a resuscitator call to aid Jurgens wife Donna, who authorities said had passed out from a possible overdose of drugs.

While firemen and ambulance staff administered first aid, a fight broke out between Jurgens and another man. Jurgens pushed the man into the stretcher. When Leyden intervened to keep the men away house. Leyden was treated and released from a local hospital for a minor cut on his chest.

Police arrested Jurgens at the

Mrs. Jurgens was reported in good condition at a local hospital Friday night.

County Judge Jeffre Cheuvront said he will set a preliminary hearing date Aug. 17. Bond was set at $2,000.

If convicted of the felony offense, Jurgens could be sentenced to serve from one to 20 years in prison.

some heroin, as well as a variety of drug paraphernalia. The seized substances are being tested for identification, police The raid culminated a lengthy investigation by police, aided by the county sheriff's officers and the State Patrol.

Chamber Raps Hamilton Claim The Lincoln Chamber of after a Planning Commission

Commerce has expressed concern over County Commissioner Bruce Hamilton's reported allegation earlier this week that a "growth conspiracy" was involved in Lincoln's proposed new street plan. In a letter from chamber president Leo Beck to Hamilton, the chamber called the commissioner's statements "highly irresponsible." Earlier this week meeting, Hamilton said that "monied and growth-oriented businesses" had conspired with members of the Planning Commission in developing the street plan. The chamber's letter said that the Planning Commission's unanimous decision represented "the very essence of citizen input" and could be altered in May I suggest a name to replace "Life Begins at Forty"? How about "Growing Older Gracefully"?

Being 66 proves that I am growing older. However, I'm not so sure that the adverb applies to me, but I do know many older men and women to whom grace would apply.

Because you look so young, I'm wondering what inspired your interest in senior citizens. Would you consider devoting a column one day as to why? Whatever the reason, I just have to say I am glad.

The American Quest

First came the convictions . . . solid rock-like convictions about man and his rights . . . convictions about God and the gifts with which He generous'y blessed mankind. Then, came a search to implement these convictions; the result was our Declaration of Independence

American liberty like America itself had its beginning in the quest for spiritual identity. In the wilderness itself the pilgrim fathers searched and labored to build a civilization based on their religious convictions. They probed their minds and hearts and discovered that they shared a common vision of one nation under God." Again, the Declaration was the inspired result

If our third century is to be one of "independence," like the two that have preceded it, all of us must continue this quest, and maintain this eternal vigilance of faith and religious commitment

They probed their minds and hearts and discovered that they shared a common vision of

'one nation under God." Again, the Declaration was the inspired result If our third century is to be one of "independence," like the two that have preceded it, all of us must continue this quest, and maintain this eternal vigilance of faith and religious commitment.

North's Ship Comes In, 93-72

THE LINCOLN STAR

Sports

Saturday, August 7, 1976

By RANDY YORK Prep Sports Editor

If you wonder when the South's all-star basketball ship began to sink Friday night at Pershing Auditorium, here's a hint - sometime during the fourth quarter.

South coach Rod Felix of Seward was getting desperate and tried to run with four big men in the lineup.

much else as the North completed a two-game sweep of the South in the Nebraska Coaches Assn. series with a 93-72 triumph

"When they came out with those four big boys, Denny Bargen and I just looked at each other and sort of smiled," North coach Ken Trubey of Ord con-

"They had too much height It didn't work and neither did and we knew we could get the ball down on 'em," Trubey said. Felix's desperation bid included 6-7 Mark McVicker, 6-6 Jeff Nannan, 6-6 Jeff Scholl and 6-5 Kon Adkisson in the lineup at the same time with guard Don Trotter.

'We couldn't break," Felix said, "but we were sliding behind and willing to try anything. We wanted to pop the ball inside, but didn't get the job done.

The North seemed determined not to let the South get back into contention like it did in Thursday night's 88-83 decision at North Platte.

"After letting them back in the game last night, we weren't about to let them do it tonight," Trubey said. "We've won the last two nights on team effort." It's been a familiar North story in recent years. Despite coming into most games with lesser known players, the North has managed to win six of the last seven all-star contests to assume a 6-3 edge in the series.

Trubey cited what he called the dominating inside force of Creighton Prep's Ted Parks and Lincoln High's Jon Parker. They combined for better than 50% field goal marksmanship and 36 points.

"McVicker (Hasting's Mark) got his points (16) for the South," Trubey said, "but I think everyone knew he was going to get them. I couldn't be more pleased."

The satisfaction of winning was tempered only by the tiredness of training camp and the strain of two games in two

"Fatigue showed on all of us tonight," Trubey said. "Two games is asking quite a bit from anyone in an all-star situation, but I think it's a good format. The only thing I'd change is add a day of training camp, so you could eliminute three-a-day practices.' The best part of being an all-star coach, according to Trubey, "is combining the different social lives on and off the court. I think our players got along in both situations.

It was not, however, instantaneous teamwork and togetherness.

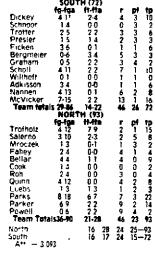

'It took us nine practices before we started seeing it," Trubey said "We were asking them to give and they finally got the idea

Trubey tackled mention of a possible most valuable North player in typically diplomatic fashion.

"Chris Salerno was the steadiest we had all week," he said, "but they've all contributed - Parks, Parker, Todd Trofholz, Jeff Quinn, Jay Bellar. I know I'm leaving people out."

Despite the two losses. Felix had no qualms about the twogame setup

"If we had won, it'd been great," he said "We were fired up tonight and came out hustling. I think man-for-man the North was just more physical

Auditorium. Parks, a Creighton Prep graduate, led the North to a 93-72 triumph with

The North Shrine bowl team has the distinction of having four tackles with major college scholarships. They are, from left, Creighton Prep's Keith McCormick, Omaha Burke's Mike Bruce, Columbus' Dan Pensick and Norfolk's Jim Molini. Molini earned a Big Ten scholarship at Iowa and McCormick was recruited by Notre Dame while Pensick and Bruce will attend Nebraska. McCormick and Bruce will start on offense in Saturday's 18th charity game and Molini and Pensick are defensive starters.

Focus Un Shrine Line Game

Prep Sports Editor

So you're an ordinary fan and watch wherever the football goes after it leaves the quarterback's hands

Well, there's nothing wrong with that, but you really should try something different in Saturday's 18th annual Shrine Bowl football game at Memorial Stadium. Focus, for instance, on the line play for a couple series of downs. You might be pleasantly surprised, watching what Nebraska coach Tom Osborne considers the state's best crop of linemen in years maybe even the best ever.

Omaha South's John Faiman, the South head coach, realizes most of the headliners belong in the North line

With such backs as Tim Wurth, Tim MoCrady and Frank Taylor behind that quickly dynamite can explode

"We've just got to hope our team quickness on defense offsets their offensive line," he says. "We know they have big. strong, quick athletes up front. But we like our defensive ends, linebackers and secondary, too. We have a fine unit ' The heart of the South defense are tackles Dave Slagle of Lincoln Southeast and Tom Matthies of Oxford and Lincoln East middle guard Tom Strasheim, who earns his coaches' medal of honor for valor and consistency throughout the two-week training camp session at Doane College

If the North offensive line scares the South, the South passing game scares the North and its head coach, Bob Starr of North Platte

"Both their quarterbacks are great players." he says of the South's Mike Mancuso and Brad Humphrey "I know they have people who catch the ball well, too

Starr wishes the air game was all he had to worry about. "I haven't seen many Ibacks better than that pair on the South -Sam Yowell (Lincoln East) and Bob Billinger (Omaha Westside). They have the credentials. Both played in the state finals,

Von Hemel

Starr echoed Faiman's observation about the uncertainty of preparation for a team loaded with question marks.

It's just like an opening game for your own school," he says. "There's only one chance Saturday You just hope for the sake of everyone that they play the best football they're capable of playing."

On a hot August day, attitude may be more important than physical talent, according to both coaches.

Faiman is hoping the South maintains the emotional peak it's had since the opening day of training camp.

"We really have had two good weeks," he says. The team morale is high. The kids are executing well. I know they'll give their best. The North will have to play awfully well to beat us '

For the first time Wednesday, Starr felt a

"Basically," he says, "I think we've gotten a little tired. Up to Wednesday, I had nothing but acclaim for our morale and performance We just went flat." If both teams' running games go flat

Saturday, Faiman believes his team will be in the driver's seat If the defense forces the game into that," he says, "we think we'll be all right because we think we have more passing. Faiman doesn't want to be misunderstood, however He's confident of his squad's ability through the air. But they'll have to stop Joe Adams and

Sam Yowell, too, 'he says, "I haven't heard either of them say we're going to have to pass

Parker, By CHUCK SINCLAIR Prep Sports Writer

Ultimately, Jon Parker would like to play Big Eight basketball. Ted Parks figures eventually Parker can play in the Big Eight, but just the same, he'd like to see his new friend at South Dakota State. Parks, a graduate of Omaha Creighton Prep, and Parker from Lincoln High, coupled a new friendship with each other and the rest of the 12-man North all-star roster to sweep the two game senes in the Nebraska Coaches Assn all-star basketball game with a 9-372 triumph iday night at I Pershing Auditorium.

With players limited to just three quarters of competition, Parks' 22 points and Parker's 14 along with 15 from Columbus' Todd Trofholz demed the South a chance for revenge after suffering an 88-83 setback in North Platte on Thursday

But the story was the friendship among all the North

If there was anything Parker team members, and especially valued more than the two all star that of 6-5 Parks and 6-7 Parker wins earned by his North team, whose basketball backgrounds it was the friendship with Parks. "There's just something about

North's Ship Comes In, 93-72

THE LINCOLN STAR

Saturday, August 7, 1976

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Editor
If you wonder when the South's all-star basketball ship began to sink Friday night at Pershing Auditorium, here's a hint - sometime during the fourth quarter.

South coach Rod Felix of Seward was getting desperate and tried to run with four big men in the lineup.

It didn't work and neither did much else as the North completed a two-game sweep of the South in the Nebraska Coaches Assn. series with a 93-72 triumph.

"When they came out with those four big boys, Denny Bargen and I just looked at each other and sort of smiled," North coach Ken Trubey of Ord con-and we knew we could get the ball down on 'em,' Trubey said.

Felix's desperation bid in-cluded 6-7 Mark McVicker, 6-6 Jeff Nannan, 6-6 Jeff Scholl and 6-5 Ken Adkisson in the lineup at at North Platte. the same time with guard Don Trotter.

'We couldn't break," Felix said, "but we were sliding behind and willing to try anything. We wanted to pop the

"They had too much height ball inside, but didn't get the job done.'

The North seemed determined not to let the South get back into contention like it did in Thursday night's 88-83 decision

"After letting them back in the game last night, we weren't about to let them do it tonight," Trubey said. "We've won the last two nights on team effort."

It's been a familiar North story in recent years. Despite coming into most games with lesser known players, the North has managed to win six of the last seven all-star contests to assume a 6-3 edge in the series.

Trubey cited what he called the dominating inside force of Creighton Prep's Ted Parks and Lincoln High's Jon Parker. They combined for better than 50% field goal marksmanship and 36 points

"McVicker (Hasting's Mark) got his points (16) for the South," Trubey said, "but I think everyone knew he was going to get them. I couldn't be more pleased."

The satisfaction of winning was tempered only by the tiredness of training camp and the strain of two games in two nights.

"Fatigue showed on all of us tonight," Trubey said. "Two games is asking quite a bit from anyone in an all-star situation, but I think it's a good format. The only thing I'd change is add a day of training camp, so you could eliminute three-a-day practices."

The best part of being an allstar coach, according to Trubey, "is combining the different social lives on and off the court. I think our players got along in both situations.

It was not, however, instantaneous teamwork and togetherness.

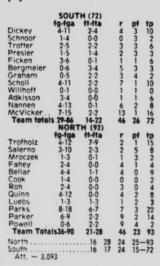

'It took us nine practices before we started seeing it," Trubey said. "We were asking them to give and they finally got the idea.'

Trubey tackled mention of a possible most valuable North player in typically diplomatic

"Chris Salerno was the steadiest we had all week," he said, "but they've all contributed - Parks, Parker, Todd Trofholz, Jeff Quinn, Jay Bellar. I know I'm leaving people out."

Despite the two losses, Felix had no qualms about the twogame setup.

"If we had won, it'd been great," he said. "We were fired up tonight and came out hustling. I think man-for-man the North was just more

Prep Sports Editor So you're an ordinary fan and watch wherever the football goes after it leaves the quarterback's hands.

Well, there's nothing wrong with that, but you really should try something different in Saturday's 18th annual Shrine Bowl football game at Memorial Stadium.

Focus, for instance, on the line play for a couple series of downs. You might be pleasantly surprised, watching what Nebraska coach Tom Osborne considers the state's best crop of linemen in years maybe even the best ever.

Omaha South's John Faiman, the South head coach, realizes most of the headliners belong in the North line.

With such backs as Tim Wurth, Tim MoCrady and Frank Taylor behind that North line, no one has to tell Faiman how quickly dynamite can explode.

'We've just got to hope our team quickness on defense offsets their offensive line," he says. "We know they have big, strong, quick athletes up front. But we like our defensive ends, linebackers and secondary, too. We have a fine unit.

The heart of the South defense are tackles Dave Slagle of Lincoln Southeast and Tom Matthies of Oxford and Lincoln East middle guard Tom Strasheim, who earns his coaches' medal of honor for valor and consistency throughout the two-week training camp session at Doane College.

If the North offensive line scares the South, the South passing game scares the North and its head coach, Bob Starr of North Platte.

"Both their quarterbacks are great players," he says of the South's Mike Mancuso and Brad Humphrey. "I know they have people who catch the ball well, too."

Starr wishes the air game was all he had to worry about. "I haven't seen many Ibacks better than that pair on the South -Sam Yowell (Lincoln East) and Bob Billinger (Omaha Westside). They have the credentials. Both played in the state finals,

Starr echoed Faiman's observation about the uncertainty of preparation for a team loaded with question marks.

"It's just like an opening game for your own school," he says. "There's only one chance Saturday. You just hope for the sake of everyone that they play the best football they're capable of playing."

On a hot August day, attitude may be more important than physical talent, according to both coaches.

Faiman is hoping the South maintains the emotional peak it's had since the opening day of training camp.

'We really have had two good weeks," he says. "The team morale is high. The kids are executing well. I know they'll give their best. The North will have to play awfully well to beat us."

For the first time Wednesday, Starr felt a

Prep Sports Writer Ultimately, Jon Parker would like to play Big Eight basketball. Ted Parks figures eventually Parker can play in the Big Eight, but just the same, he'd like to see his new friend at South Dakota State.

Parks, a graduate of Omaha Creighton Prep, and Parker from Lincoln High, coupled a new friendship with each other and the rest of the 12-man North all-star roster to sweep the two game series in the Nebraska Coaches Assn. all-star basketball game with a 9-372 triumph Friday night at Lincoln's Pershing Auditorium.

With players limited to just three quarters of competition, Parks' 22 points and Parker's 14 along with 15 from Columbus' Todd Trofholz denied the South a chance for revenge after suffering an 88-83 setback in North Platte on Thursday.

But the story was the heart friendship among all the North team members, and especially valued more than the two all star that of 6-5 Parks and 6-7 Parker whose basketball backgrounds differed so much.

Parker, however, just completed his 11th organized basketball game in Pershing after becoming eligible at the semester break for Lincoln High. 'After Jon plays two years of junior college ball," Parks said. 'He's going to be one of the best players to ever come out of the state of Nebraska. "He's got all the qualities you look for in a player," Parks added. "But he just hasn't had the time to develop them all." "He's got big hands, he's physical and he has a lot of natural ability;" Parks said. 'But most important, he's got wins earned by his North team, it was the friendship with Parks. 'There's just something about that guy," Parker said. "He motivates you and he's fun to be around. I'd never met him

If there was anything Parker before we got together for this, but now we're close friends, we're tight.'

Although Parker had never met Parks, it's ironic that Parks was playing in the first high school basketball game Jon ever saw, the state championship game two years ago between Prep and Omaha Central.

Now, Parker has his eyes focused on the future.

"I know I'm not near as good as I can be right now," Parker said. "After some time at Southeast Community College in Fairbury I hope I can fit into some Big Eight ball.

It may have been the first time in Jeff Quinn's life that he didn't head into a situation full blast.

Quinn, the talented Ord High School athlete who has gained a reputation for his all-out, hellbent-for-leather approach toward athletics, finally found himself stopped.

Not by an opponent, but by a question.

The question? Was it worth turning down a chance to play in the Shrine Bowl for the opportunity to play in the All-Star basketball game?

"Now that's a toughie," a smiling Quinn said as he pondered the question Friday night at Pershing Auditorium after his North team had blitzed the South, 93-72.

But in true Quinn fashion, it didn't take the rugged 6-2, 190pounder long to get rolling.

"Yes I think it was worth it." Quinn said. "I don't regret the decision at all. I met some good friends and really enjoyed myself." Jeff Quinn is a unique young Japan's Chako Higachi shot a six-under-par 68 for a 54-hole total of 210. 12-under-par, and a five-stroke lead over Sandra Palmer in the $90,000 European Women's Open Championship. Higuchi's round included an eagle and four birdies.

The San Francisco 49ers shored up their injury-riddled offensive line with the acquisition of fifth-year guard Steve Lawson from the Minnesota Vikings in exchange for defensive backs Windles Hall and Nate Allen.

The Talladega 500 entry list has a large crop of rookies but one man cannot be called a rookie. He's A.J. Foyt, but he technically is a rookie because he's never run in the Talladega 500. He's the fastest rookie with the third best qualifying time. The condition of world champion race driver Niki Lauda is improved to the extent that his doctors were contemplating his transfer to a hospital with a special burn treatment center.

John Walker, New Zealand's 1,500 meter Olympic gold medalist, and already the fastest man in the world over one mile and the 2,000 meters, failed to become a triple world champion when he ran fourth in the 1,000 meters, although his doctor advised him not to run at all for five days.

Earl Anthony passed the $80,600 mark and remained in first place in official money winnings on the Professional Bowlers Association tour

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (UPI) - Steve Riddick upset Russian sprint star Valery Borzov in the 100 meters while other American men also made up for Olympic disappointments Friday, but the Soviet Union's track team led after the first day of the team's annual dual meet on the strength of a stem-to-stern sweep by their women.

The total team tally after 17 events, with competition to resume Saturday, was 99-79 in favor of the Soviets. But the U.S. men led 59-46 and only the 53-20 margin compiled by the Russian women made up for the deficit.

Riddick, who failed to qualify for the 100-meter finals in Montreal, defeated Borzov in a time of 10.15 seconds - a half step ahead of the Russian, who had never been beaten in three previous appearances in this dual meet. The Philadelphian then anchored the winning U.S. 400-meter relay team, outrunning Borzov to finish off a meet record time of 38.56 seconds.

Another American recouping prestige from the Olympics was pole vaulter Dave Roberts, who won the event but failed in a shot to break his own world record of 18 feet, 814 inches. With the bar set at 18 feet, nine inches and darkness falling fast, Roberts, who finished in the rain at Montreal, missed clearing the record height on three tries. He almost made it on the third attempt, but settled for a winning vault of 18 feet, 1-2 in-

Other U.S. winners among the men who failed to bring back gold from the Olympics were Charles Foster in the 110-meter hurdles, followed by ageless Willie Davenport; Ben Brown and Jim Robinson with a onetwo finish in the 400-meters: Mike Durkin with a new meet record of 3:38.42 in the 1,500meter run and Craig Virgin in the 10,000 meters. # Quinn Pleased ith Decision

It may have been the first time in Jeff Quinn's life that he didn't head into a situation full blast. Quinn, the talented Ord High School athlete who has gained a reputation for his all-out, hellbent-for-leather approach toward athletics, finally found himself stopped.

Not by an opponent, but by a question.

The question? Was it worth turning down a chance to play in the Shrine Bowl for the opportunity to play in the All-Star basketball game?

"Now that's a toughie," a smiling Quinn said as he pondered the question Friday night at Pershing Auditorium after his North team had blitzed the South, 93-72.

But in true Quinn fashion, it didn't take the rugged 6-2, 190pounder long to get rolling.

"Yes I think it was worth it," Quinn said. "I don't regret the decision at all. I met some good friends and really enjoyed myself.

Jeff Quinn is a unique young man. He has a full ride to Nebraska in football where he'll try to make the Cornhuskers as a quarterback.

Most athletes gaining a Nebraska's Big Red, would run through the wall of Memorial Shrine Bowl. It's a chance to show their future coaches what they can do.

Not Quinn. He wanted one last chance to show his present coach one more time that he's also a talented basketball player.

Quinn's high school coach Ken Trubey was the head coach of the North. It was Trubey's presence on the North squad that swayed Quinn's decision to play basketball.

'That's quite an honor, one of the best I've ever had," Trubey said of Quinn's decision.

Reflecting on his prep days under Trubey's guidance, Quinn said: "I've respected that man since I was in the seventh grade. He just seems to glow."

Quinn, who finished with eight points and four rebounds Friday, continued his praise of Trubey. "I think he's shown in these all-star games how good a coach he really is," Quinn said. Friday's victory marked the end of the basketball line for Quinn. Saturday he is going to attend the game he could have been a part of - the Shrine

"I know a lot of thoughts will go through my mind as I sit there and watch the Shrine game," said Quinn, who was cheered on by visiting relatives coveted scholarship with from California and Iowa. "I guess that's natural. But I'm happy. I'll always be glad I Stadium for a shot to play in the decided on the basketball

Petrie To Hawks For Lucas

Morning Briefing

Geoff Petrie was traded by the Portland Trailblazers to Atlanta for Maurice Lucas and Petrie said he was "honored" to be selected. Portland sent Petrie and Steve Hawes to the Hawks for the number two pick in the NBA dispersal draft of players from the defunct ABA.

The Blazers had the Hawks pick Lucas and then tabbed former prep sensation Moses Malone as their own selection later. Petrie was planning to play out his option with the Blazers this year.

Petrie was rookie of the year in 1970-71 when he was Portland's top draft pick, he played in the all-star game and won the NBA's one-on-one competition the first year.

Other Basketball

Guard Kevin Porter of the Detroit Pistons will compete for the first time since he was injured eight months ago when he plays in a California summer league.

Bob Fowler, a 6-4 prep all-American basketball forward from Dearborn, Mich., will enter Iowa State University this fall, according to Cyclone coach Lynn Nance.

Other Sports

U.S. District Judge Noel Fox is considering a request from Joe Hunt to be reinstated on the Michigan State football team. Hunt, a senior, was declared ineligible by MSU when the NCAA applied pressure during investigations into rules infractions. Hunt, one of seven punished, was the only one declared ineligible for a full year.

Jimmy Connors, the 1974 winner, was seeded first for the $150,-000 U.S. Open Clay Court Tennis Championships in Indianapolis.

Outfielder Bake McBride of the St. Louis Cards will be lost to the team for the rest of the season because of knee surgery. He has cartilage damage.

The East German women set a new world record for the 4 x 800 meter relay in the GDR track and field championships, clocked in

7:54.2. The old record was 8:05.2 set by a Bulgarian team. Gov. James A. Rhodes of Ohio said that the federal government or private industry should provide financial support for amateur athletes to bring the United States into a more competitive

Leroy Jolley has two big races Saturday - Honest Pleasure is in the $100,000 Monmouth Invitational Handicap and Foolish Pleasure is favored in the $125,000 Arlington Golden Invitational. But Honest Pleasure's regular jockey Braulio Baeza was fired by Jolley Wednesday. No jockey has been named for the job.

British brothers David and John Lloyd defeated Italy's Paulo Bertolucci and Adriano Panatta 6-8, 6-3, 3-6, 18-16, 6-2 in the doubles on the second day of the European Zone Davis Cup tennis finals, cutting Italy's lead to 2-1.

Japan's Chako Higuchi shot a six-under-par 68 for a 54-hole total of 210, 12-under-par, and a five-stroke lead over Sandra Palmer in the $90,000 European Women's Open Championship. Higuchi's round included an eagle and four birdies.

The San Francisco 49ers shored up their injury-riddled offensive line with the acquisition of fifth-year guard Steve Lawson from the Minnesota Vikings in exchange for defensive backs Windlan Hall and Nate Allen.

The Talladega 500 entry list has a large crop of rookies but one man cannot be called a rookie. He's A.J. Foyt, but he technically is a rookie because he's never run in the Talladega 500. He's the fastest rookie with the third best qualifying time.

The condition of world champion race driver Niki Lauda is improved to the extent that his doctors were contemplating his transfer to a hospital with a special burn treatment center.

John Walker, New Zealand's 1,500 meter Olympic gold medalist, and already the fastest man in the world over one mile and the 2,000 meters, failed to become a triple world champion when he ran fourth in the 1,000 meters, although his doctor advised him not to run at all for five days.

Earl Anthony passed the $80,000 mark and remained in first place in official money winnings on the Professional Bowlers Association tour.

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (UPI) - Steve Riddick upset Russian sprint star Valery Borzov in the 100 meters while other American men also made up for Olympic disappointments Friday, but the Soviet Union's track team led after the first day of the team's annual dual meet on the strength of a stem-to-stern sweep by their women.

The total team tally after 17 events, with competition to resume Saturday, was 99-79 in favor of the Soviets. But the U.S. men led 59-46 and only the 53-20 margin compiled by the Russian women made up for the deficit.

Riddick, who failed to qualify for the 100-meter finals in Montreal, defeated Borzov in a time of 10.15 seconds — a half step ahead of the Russian, who had never been beaten in three previous appearances in this dual meet. The Philadelphian then anchored the winning U.S. 400-meter relay team, outrunning Borzov to finish off a meet record time of 38.56 seconds.

Another American recouping prestige from the Olympics was pole vaulter Dave Roberts, who won the event but failed in a shot to break his own world record of 18 feet, 81/4 inches.

With the bar set at 18 feet, nine inches and darkness falling fast, Roberts, who finished in the rain at Montreal, missed clearing the record height on three tries. He almost made it on the third attempt, but settled for a winning vault of 18 feet, 1-2 in-

Other U.S. winners among the men who failed to bring back gold from the Olympics were Charles Foster in the 110-meter hurdles, followed by ageless Willie Davenport; Ben Brown and Jim Robinson with a onetwo finish in the 400-meters; Mike Durkin with a new meet record of 3:38.42 in the 1,500meter run and Craig Virgin in the 10,000 meters.

Prep Writers Split On Shrine Bowl Choices Sunday Journal and Star prep writers Randy York and Chuck Sinclair are split in their opinions over Saturday's Shrine

Bowl winner

York sees it this way North 20, South 14 — The North holds the upper hand in the offensive and defensive line with quality running backs behind it The key is the defensive backs. Can they survive an air attack as well as the homerun ball potential of Sam Yowell?

Sinclair sees it differently South 14, North 7 - The tearn unity concept emphasized by the South coaching staff throughout the two week training camp should become evident to the spectators in the form of an aerial attack Two able quarterbacks, Omaha South's Mike Mancuso and Bellevue's Brad Humphrey, could have great success - if they can see over the North's towering defensive line

Monte Anthony's 1974 Shrine Bowl performance of 159 yards rushing is 44 more yards than any other back has gained in the history of the 16-year charity series

The Bellevue standout got 30 opportunities to carry the ball Gale Sayers (Omaha Central, 1961) didn't crack the 100-yard level But he touched the ball only eight times in the Shrine game, scoring four touchdowns and gaining 95 yards on six rushes and 77 yards on two pass receptions.

Stagecoach Lake To Be Closed

The drawdown of Stagecoach Lake south of Hickman is com plete and fisheries personnel have moved as many of its game fish as possible to nearby Hedgefield Lake according to the Game and Parks Commission

The lake will be treated with rotenone a fish-killing chemical, on Aug 10 to eliminate an undesirable fish population, particularly the lake's white perch

Stagecoach will be closed to the public only on the day that the chemical is applied. This will keep sightseers out of the way of fisheries personnel, and keep people from taking fish killed by the chemical for food

Prep Writers Split On Shrine Bowl Choices Sunday Journal and Star prep writers Randy York and

Chuck Sinclair are split in their opinions over Saturday's Shrine Bowl winner.

York sees it this way: North 20, South 14 — The North holds the upper hand in the offensive and defensive line with quality running backs behind it. The key is the defensive backs. Can they survive an air attack as well as the homerun ball potential of Sam Yowell? Sinclair sees it differently:

South 14, North 7 — The team unity concept emphasized by the South coaching staff throughout the two week training camp should become evident to the spectators in the form of an aerial attack. Two able quarterbacks, Omaha South's Mike Mancuso and Bellevue's Brad Humphrey, could have great success - if they can see over the North's towering defensive line.

Monte Anthony's 1974 Shrine Bowl performance of 159 yards rushing is 44 more yards than any other back has gained in the history of the 16-year charity series.

The Bellevue standout got 30 opportunities to carry the ball. Gale Sayers (Omaha Central, 1961) didn't crack the 100-yard level. But he touched the ball only eight times in the Shrine game, scoring four touchdowns and gaining 95 yards on six rushes and 77 yards on two pass receptions. All-time Shrine Bowl leaders include:

Rushing

1. Monte Anthony, Bellevue, 1974, South, 159 yards, 30 carries; 2. Larry Frost, Malcolm, 1965, South, 115 yards, 7 carries; 3. Jack Kelley, Omaha Ryan, 1973, South, 113 yards, 10 carries; 4. Ritch Bahe, Fremont, 1971 North, 106 yards, 16 carries; 5. Tony Davis, Tecumseh, 1971, South, 99 yards, 19 carries; 6. Tom Heiser, Columbus, 1971, North, 97 yards, 13 carries; 7. Gale Sayers, Omaha Central, 1961, 95 yards, 6 carries.

Passing

1. Tom Engelman, Scottsbluff, 1969, North, 5 of 17, 155 yards; 2. Max Linder, Plattsmouth, 1969, South 10 of 12, 133 yards; 3. Joe Glenn, Lincoln Pius X, 1967, South, 9 of 14, 131 yards.

Pass Receiving

1. Randy Foster, Lincoln Southeast, 1975, 6 catches, 97 yards; 2. Jim Prater, Omaha Tech, 1962, North, 3 catches, 88 yards; 3. Mike Conway, Omaha Holy

Prep Panorama

Name, 1960, North, 5 catches, 85 yards; 4. Bob Schmit, Boys Town, 1969, South, 3 catches, 80 yards; 5. Gale Sayers, Omaha Central, 1961, South, 2 catches, 77 yards; 6. Johnny Rodgers, Omaha Tech, 1969, North, 2 catches, 77 yards.

Total Offense

1. Bob Hohn, Beatrice, 1960, South, 177 yards; 2. Monte Anthony, Bellevue, 1974, South, 159 yards; 3. Joe Glenn, Lincoln Pius X, 1967, South, 121 yards; 4. Skip Tredway, Aurora, 1969, South, 119 yards; 5. Dan McGinn, Omaha Cathedral, 1962, North, 116 yards; 6. Larry Frost, Malcolm, 1965, South, 115 yards; 7. Jack Kelley, Omaha Ryan, 1973, South, 113 yards; 8-9. Max Linder, Plattsmouth, 1968, South, 106 yards; 8-9. Ritch Bahe, Fremont, 1971, North, 106 yards.

Fairbury's Mark Wittler will handle the punting duties for the South. If Albion's Marian McCuiston is sufficiently healed from a knee strain, he will punt for the North. If he is not, Fremont's Greg Olson will be the North punter. Farnam's Greg Bellamy is the placement kicking specialist for the South. Norfolk's Dave Copple will kick for the North.

Tom Doggett, Lincoln Pius X's twice all-state running back, will not compete in Saturday's Shrine Bowl.

Doggett, a South squad selection, strained knee ligaments on the opening day of practice. Doctors advised him Wednesday afternoon he would be unable to play.

Five 1975 Shrine Bowl players will be honored in pre-game ceremonies.

Lincoln East monster back Bill Holmes, who died this summer from an enlarged heart, and John Havekost of Scribner shared the Clayton F. Andrews Trophy, the game's top defensive honor. Mr. and Mrs. Dale Holmes will accept the award.

Ord's Bill Gogan will receive the Blue Howell Trophy, awarded annually to the game's outstanding offensive player. Creighton Prep's Mark Stroh and Kearney's Brad Rodgers will receive the Bob Russell Trophy for their contributions to the Shrine Bowl. A vote of teammates decides the award. Twelve Shrine Bowl players, six on each team, will attend

Nebraska this fall on full football scholarships. They are: South — quarterback Brad Humphrey and fullback Joe Adams, Bellevue; defensive ends Brian Hedrick and Kim Baker of York; Oxford tackle Tom Matthies; and Omaha Westside tackle Dave O'Doherty; North - back Tim Wurth and tackle Mike Bruce of Omaha Burke; North Platte sick; Omaha North back Frank Taylor; and Columbus Scotus tight end John Fischer. North tackle Keith McCormick of Creighton Prep earned a scholarship to Notre Dame. Norfolk's Jim Molini, another North tackle, earned a Big 10 scholarship at Iowa.

middle guard Kerry Weinmaster; Columbus tackle Dan Pen-

The South holds a commanding 11-4-2 edge in the 17-year Shrine Bowl series.

The North has won every four years over the last 12 years, scoring wins in 1964 (12-3), 1968 (19-7) and 1972 (20-6). It's other win was 28-0 in 1962.

Ties came in 1967 (13-13) and last year (7-7).

Stagecoach Lake To Be Closed

The drawdown of Stagecoach Lake south of Hickman is complete, and fisheries personnel have moved as many of its game fish as possible to nearby Hedgefield Lake, according to the Game and Parks Commis-

The lake will be treated with rotenone, a fish-killing chemical, on Aug. 10 to eliminate an undesirable fish population, particularly the lake's white perch.

Stagecoach will be closed to the public only on the day that the chemical is applied. This will keep sightseers out of the way of fisheries personnel, and keep people from taking fish killed by the chemical for food.

UNO Names Mankenberg

Omaha (UPI) - A former Iowa girls basketball standout today was named head women's basketball coach at the University of Nebraska-Omaha.

Cherri Mankenberg comes to the UNO campus from the University of Northern Colorado where she received her master's degree and coached the women's iunior varsity intercollegiate basketball team. Mankenberg received her undergraduate degree in physical education from Wayne State College in Wayne, Neb.

In addition, UNO said Judy Sexton, a physical education teacher at George W. Norris Junior High School in Omaha, had been appointed athletic last five years at Pueblo, Colo., trainer and physical education instructor. Sexton has worked on a part-time basis for the past two years as a trainer for the UNO women's athletic teams, while defensive coordinator, according assisting in the men's program to Jerry Joy, athletic director. as time permitted.

FHA Establishes Rules To Reduce Foreclosures

New York - Thanks to the improving economy, the number of people losing their homes to toreclosure has been reduced But the continuing high unemployment rate means that many of you are still in jeopardy.

Housing Administration has established new foreclosure procedures for holders of FHAinsured mortgages Under certain circumstances, the Department of Housing and Urban Development will take over threatened mortgages and restructure the payments, in and state your case order to keep people from losing their homes

HUD has always been allowed to pick up mortgages when the borrower seemed deserving But there were no formalized procedures for doing so, and it wasn't very common Under the new rules, however, HUD expects the number of people it helps to increase considerably In fact, there have been 3,000 applications since the program began on May 17 Here are the criteria a borrower must meet in order to be eligible

(1) - The mortgage company has definitely decided to foreclose (2) At least three consecutive mortgage payments have not been met (3) Nonpayment was due to a temporary problem, like illness, lavoff, or a death in the family. (4) The mortgage is on your principal home, not a summer home

(5) You don't own any other property with a governmentinsured mortgage

(6) You will be able to resume full payments within 36 months

Because of this, the Federal You yourself can't get the government to intervene any time you're in trouble, HUD's Phil Forrest told my associate, Anne Colamosca Only after the mortgage holder decides to foreclose and notifies HUD will you be considered for help At that point, go to a HUD office

> It may be that HUD will decide you don't qualify (perhaps because the default was due to too many bills rather than illness or loss of work) If you think you've been turned down unfairly, notify HUD within 15 days of getting its verdict that you want to appeal

There's no program similar to the FHAs for mortgages backed by the Veterans Administration But the VA does bring private pressure on lenders not to foreclose too quickly

Anytime you can't pay your mortgage when due, and have a good excuse, be sure to explain the circumstances to the bank. If the problem turns out to last longer than anticipated, it helps to have established right from the start that the delinquency was due to something like illness or job loss, rather than the familiar tardiness of a deadbeat.

State foreclosure laws generally favor the lender Proceedings 30 days after default. In practice, move as quickly as the law wipe you out allows They may give you five (c) 1976 The Washington Post Company months or more to get yourself together, before cracking down

If you have a really good excuse you may get as long as a year, as long as you can keep on paying your property taxes and the interest on the debt. In some cases, lenders may want to spread the mortgage out over several more years, in order to lower the monthly payments (This, of course, will cost you more interest) Even after foreclosure begins, many lenders will reinstate the mortgage if it appears that you'll be able to resume payments. They probably won't do it, however, if you've been in foreclosure once or twice before Eighteen states have formal procedures for redeeming a house after default. But since it generally involves paying off the mortgage in full, they're rarely used

When a house is foreclosed it's sold at auction - and usually, the lender is the only bidder He bids the amount of the mortgage plus his foreclosure costs, if no one bids higher the house goes to him Since the house is generally worth more on the open market than the amount of its mortgage, you lose money by permitting a foreclosure sale to occur.

If it ever appears that it's going to be impossible to hang on to your house, it's better to sell it yourself than let it go to foreclosure You'll get the market price, which covers the equity in the house as well as the amount of the mortgage. Then, even after you pay off the may begin as few as 60 or even lender, you'll have a chunk of cash left over for vourselt however, many lenders don't whereas a foreclosure sale would stock market, depressed early in the day by word of another rise in the unemployment rate, bounced back toward the close Friday to post only a narrow

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, off nearly 4 points at mid-day, wound up with a .68 decline at 986 even. For the week the average edged up 1.36 points.

Losers outpaced gainers by a very narrow margin after leading by nearly 2-1 earlier in the daily tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Big Board volume shrank to 13.93 million shares from 15.53 million Thursday.

As the session began the government reported that the unemployment rate climbed from 7.5 to 7.8 per cent in July, with a push from an influx of people into the job market.

The increase, the second in a row, put the rate back up to its level of last January.

Hog Prices Rise Again

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)-Hogs turned in their second straight day of gains, but trade on the Omaha livestock market Friday was generally on the dull side.

The day's hog run was estimated at a rather small 2,200 head. Barrows and gilts saw active trade, with 200-to-250-pounders trending 75-cents to $1.00 higher, and weights over 300 pounds called 50-cents to $1.00 higher. Offerings from 250-to-300 pounds were scarce.

Sows trended steady on tickets marked generally from $37.50-$38.00, with one lot clearing at $38.25.

There were only about 1,500 cattle and calves on offer, and most of the run was made up of feeder stock in for Friday's auction. The fresh slaughter supply was made up mostly of cows, which were termed steady in fairly active trade.

S. African Police Put On Alert; Riots Spread

Johannesburg (UPI) - Racial riots spread to two more provinces Friday and South African police went on nationwide alert Police opened fire on crowds of rioting blacks in the segregated township of Soweto for the third straight day killing at least one rioter

Three days of demonstrations in Soweto spread to Inanda in Natal province and to the Orange Free State, police said Police said the rioting "shows no signs of ending '

Police headquarters in Pretoria said the national alert was ordered only as a precautionary measure" to prevent the rioting from escalating

The death of one black Friday brought to eight the number killed in the past three days of spreading racial violence

Police denied reports that a machine gun and six rifles were stolen from them in Soweto The Johannesburg Star said a machine gun was seized from a policeman after he was struck on the head by a rock

Black newsmen who witnessed police shooting at crowds in Soweto Friday said they saw at least one victim downed by a bullet and others

"Police took them away immediately after the shooting and drove away." one newsman said. Only blacks are permitted into the township and foreign and local white reporters have been barred entry. Students frequently were warned by police bullhorns that their demonstrations were illegal under a ban on all public meetings In several areas. students refused to heed war-

Police moved around crowds "hippo" armored vehicles carrying about 20 men and tossing out teargas cannisters. The witnessing newsmen said the students fled the smoke but regrouped elsewhere

Taxpayers Footing Bill For Pro-Ford Booklet

He said the White House issued a one-year report last August.

director, David R. Gergen, and his deputy, William Rhatican, wrote the booklet, subtitled "A Portrait of the First Two Years."

The preface said, "The materials that follow are intended to a straightforward account of the first two years of the Ford presidency "

The following 92 pages deal with subjects ranging from recession, vetoes, women's rights, drug abuse, health, welfare reform, farming and foreign policy.

Nessen said the booklet would be given to administration officials as a handy reference in answering questions about the Ford presidency The booklet contains no criticism of Ford's presidency

S. African Police Put On Alert; Riots Spread

Johannesburg (UPI) - Racial riots spread to two more provinces Friday and South African police went on nationwide alert. Police opened fire on crowds of rioting blacks in the segregated township of Soweto for the third straight day, killing at least one rioter.

Three days of demonstrations in Soweto spread to Inanda in Natal province and to the Orange Free State, police said. Police said the rioting "shows no signs of ending.

Police headquarters in Pretoria said the national alert was ordered only as a "precautionary measure" to prevent the rioting from escalating

The death of one black Friday brought to eight the number killed in the past three days of spreading racial violence. Police denied reports that a machine gun and six rifles were stolen from them in Soweto. The Johannesburg Star said a machine gun was seized from a policeman after he was struck on the head by a rock.

Black newsmen who witnessed police shooting at crowds in Soweto Friday said they saw at least one victim downed by a bullet and others

"Police took them away immediately after the shooting and regrouped elsewhere.

Only blacks are permitted into the township and foreign and local white reporters have been barred entry.

Students frequently were warned by police bullhorns that their demonstrations were illegal under a ban on all public meetings. In several areas, students refused to heed war-

Police moved around crowds in "hippo" armored vehicles carrying about 20 men and tossing out teargas cannisters. The witnessing newsmen said the students fled the smoke but

Taxpayers Footing Bill For Pro-Ford Booklet

Friday issued a 93-page booklet printed at taxpayers' expense and proclaiming what Press Secretary Ron Nessen called "the achievements of President Ford's two years in

The red-covered 8-by-101/2-inch booklet was given to reporters and was being mailed to newspapers and broadcasters throughout the country, Nessen said.

Asked if Ford election officials would use the red booklet to push his drive for another term in the White House, Nessen told reporters, "I know of no plans by the President Ford Committee to use this as a political director, David R. Gergen, and his deputy, William Rhatican, wrote the booklet, subtitled "A Portrait of the First Two Years."

He said the White House issued a one-year report last August.

The preface said, "The materials that follow are intended to a straightforward account of the first two years of the Ford presidency."

The following 92 pages deal with subjects ranging from recession, vetoes, women's rights, drug abuse, health, welfare reform, farming and foreign policy.

Nessen said the booklet would be given to administration officials as a handy reference in answering questions about the Ford presidency. The booklet contains no criticism of Ford's presidency.

Shy Driver Gets Hero's Welcome

Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. Friday commended bus driver Frank E. Ray who three weeks ago led 26 kidnaped Chowchilla children to safety from an underground tomb. The shy, stocky Ray, received a hero's welcome when he appeared before the annual convention of the California School Employes Association to receive the group's outstanding service award from Brown and a $300 honorarium.

Brown, who earlier posted a $10,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the kidnapers, said he personally appeared to make the presentation "because when people do good things they should get attention."

"Every now and then we're extraordinary," Brown said. Our system depends on ordinary people acting in an extraordinary way when called to do so."

kidnaping started "until the time I got out," was saluted by Brown as a man of demonstrated courage. Brown expressed hope that "we all can emulate Ed Ray if we are called on to do that

Ray, 55, was driving the bus July 15 when it was hijacked outside the San Joaquin Valley farming community of Chowchilla. Ray and the children spent more than 24 hours in captivity before escaping from their underground prison in a rock quarry near San Francisco.
